

It is expected the Governor Draper will resume in January his place on the board of directors of the National Shawmut Bank which he resigned at the time of his election as Governor.

ing away Miss Ghas laughed at the reporters and crossed her fingers. "Don't talk nonsense," said Miss Ghas. "I am going back to London to play Peter Pan. That's all." Then she introduced her chaperon, Mrs. J. Frank Hall of Boston.

they hung about the corridors of the building.

Harrie was brought into the court room at 9 o'clock. She was smiling. She nodded to Attorney Johnson's father, who sat long her seat, preceded by Mrs. Vardick and followed by Deputy Kluge.

"How are you feeling this morning,"

THREE NEW CHAMPIONS OF THE RING IN 1910

In the domain of pugilism the year that is drawing to a close has been productive of many sensational incidents, chief of which were the victories of the apparently invulnerable Battling Nelson by both Ad Wolgast and Thos. Moran, the defeat of Jeffries by Johnson and the tragic end of Stanley Kiehl, middleweight champion.

All to champion bouts will be decided before the beginning of the new year the present holders of the titles will leave 1911 as champions. Having accident or unexpected reversal of form, few of the accredited champions are in much danger of losing their titles.

So far as Johnson is concerned there is not a fight in the entire world a man who can beat him in a short or long bout with the gloves. Now Langford would have a chance with the champion, but there is small prospect of a meeting between the two men, as Johnson has no fight at all.

England has no heavyweight who could last him a dozen rounds with Johnson, and Billy Lang, the Australian champion, is not to Johnson's class by several lengths.

It is only World's Champion, Johnson, by the way, is the only world's champion of any American on foot. It was that title that Thos. Moran won when he knocked out Lang, the Australian, and England has no man who can beat him in a short or long bout with the gloves.

In all the other classes in this country the title holders are more numerous. In the bantam, feather, light, middleweight, welter, and heavyweight classes, there are several champions, and in the light, middleweight, welter, and heavyweight classes, there are several champions, and in the light, middleweight, welter, and heavyweight classes, there are several champions.

1910 RING CHAMPIONS.

Bantamweight, 112 pounds—Jimmy Walsh of Boston.
Featherweight, 122 pounds—Ad Wolgast of San Francisco.
Lightweight, 135 pounds—Ad Wolgast of San Francisco.
Middleweight, 145 pounds—Ole Peterson of Seattle, Wash.
Welterweight, 158 pounds—Billy Burke of Seattle, Wash.
Heavyweight, 200 pounds—Jack Johnson of Savannah, Ga.

Papke Claims Title.

The untimely death of Stanley Kiehl left the middleweight title open to competition, and there are many candidates for the honor. William Papke, who once beat Kiehl, is one of the best.

GIRL FIGHTS FOR MACE, VETERAN FIGHTER, DEAD

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30.—(Reuter.) Baldwin Trenchard of Boston, chairman of the Mace, veteran fighter, died today. Mace was one of the best of the fighters who won ring honors in the early days of the sport. He was a native of England and came to America in 1880. He fought for many years and won many titles. He was a very popular fighter and was loved by the people. He died of a heart attack while fighting a bout with a younger man.
